

Re-design the Kitchen

Written by GDC

Monday, 11 July 2011 15:07 -

---

Sometimes, it takes looking past our own backyard in order to be inspired. Kitchen designs all over the world are influenced by the culture that surrounds them and often times; those influences can translate to a design that is completely unique.

When we came across this article in Builder magazine, we were struck by how different and out of the box these kitchen designs were and wanted to share them with you. Check out some of the innovative ways European firms are looking at kitchens and beyond. For example, we think the Elkay sink with the integrated cutting board is a must-have for any home cook and is a look that we've rarely seen here in the states.

We were also struck by biscotti finish on the KraftMaid cabinetry. This off-white scheme leaves a clean look to the living space with a non-traditional color.

Want to learn more about how to incorporate these European designs in your next custom kitchen renovation? Contact Georgetown Development at www.georgetowndevcorp.com where you can view some of our latest award winning homes in the Bethesda and Chevy Chase area.